

DOUBLE DEATH IN HOLLYWOOD STILL MYSTERY

Dress Designer and Chauffeur Slain; Teacher Shot

Hollywood, April 26.—(AP)—A double death in Hollywood today leaving in its wake two men dead and a third probably wounded.

Confronted with apparent cases of murder, near murder and suicide, police sought to unravel a weird maze of facts in the shooting of:

D. H. Wharton, 25, Hollywood dress designer.

William Howard, about 35, an ex-convict and chauffeur for the designer.

Henry E. Bolte, 38, law instructor at University of California at Los Angeles.

Wharton, known professionally as Paul Ivar, who assertedly had fashioned clothes for several prominent screen actresses, was murdered last night—the tragic climax of an intimate supper in his Hollywood apartment-studio, according to detectives.

Howard, sought by police immediately after the shooting, was found dead, apparently a suicide, several hours later in an apartment building entrance several blocks away.

Nearby was Bolte, lying critically wounded in front of his own apartment door.

Think Chauffeur Gunman

Preliminary investigation by police led them to believe that Howard allegedly shot Wharton, drove hurriedly to Bolte's apartment to await his arrival, shot him and then killed himself.

From Mrs. W. A. Wharton, the dress designer's invalid foster mother, Detective Lieut. R. L. Berry learned that he had entertained two — or possibly three — male acquaintances last night at a supper in his part of their quarters.

Just before 10 o'clock Mrs. Wharton said she heard several shots, and crawling into the next room, found Wharton dying. His erstwhile guests, one of whom she knew only as "Billy," had fled.

As she knelt over his body, Mrs. Wharton said another man whom she never saw before hurriedly ran out.

Detectives summoned by startled neighbors began an investigation of the murder and were interrupted when a call sent them dashing to the apartment house occupied by Bolte.

There they found the instructor, wounded in the back and neck, lying just outside his door, and a few feet away was Howard, dead.

Wife Refutes Husband

Bolte said he had never seen Howard before, but his wife, Virginia, identified a picture of him as a former friend of the family and a frequent visitor up to five months ago in their home.

The instructor, who said he had attended a law banquet downtown last night, said he was unlocking his door when he heard several shots. He fell to the floor shot in the back, as another pistol report sounded.

Mrs. Bolte told Lieutenant Berry she had gone to the door to admit her husband when the shooting occurred, and he slumped at her feet.

She said she saw Howard step toward the front door and stop. She said he placed a pistol to his temple and fired.

Bolte told officers he had seen the man outside as he drove up in front of his home with Mr. and Karl Schlichter but paid no attention to him.

He said he remembered nothing after he was shot until police arrived.

Absence of NRA Bird No Bar to Uncle Sam Buying "Essentials"

Washington, Apr. 26.—(AP)—The senate munitions committee was told today the war department could continue purchases of materials from a company whose blue eagle had been suspended if "the supply is essential to national defense."

Captain Herman U. Wagner, gave this testimony after saying the department had not been formally notified of the suspension of the Colt Patent Firearms Company's blue eagle.

Other of Six Burned to Death, in Paris, Ill.

Paris, Ill., April 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Jerome Rund, 30-year-old mother of six children, was burned to death today when kerosene used to kindle a fire exploded. Her cousin, Mrs. Harold Macke, mother of four children, was killed in a similar accident three months ago.

VESSEL, BADLY DAMAGED, SENT CALL FOR HELP

Motor Ship in Danger in Heavy Field of Ice 150 Mi. Out

St. John's, N. F., April 26.—(AP)—With her stem badly damaged in a heavy ice field 150 miles off New Foundland, the British motor ship Titanian requested immediate assistance today.

The sealing ship, Imogene, commanded by Captain Wes Kean, immediately sailed under full steam from this port toward the Titanian's position.

The message received here indicated that the ice-blocked British ship had been damaged in other parts of the hull and probably could be assisted only by an ice breaker.

Because of the similarity of names, it was at first thought that the ship was the Italian steamer, Titanian.

It was estimated that the Imogene would require 12 to 15 hours to reach the Titanian's position.

The motor ship, owned by W. A. Souter & Co., a British firm, sailed from Newcastle, Eng., on April 17 for Port Alfred, Quebec. It is of 4,900 tons.

Marine circles reported that the Titanian ordinarily carries a crew of 30 hands and no passengers.

After discharging cargo at the Quebec port, the ship was to proceed to New York where it was due about May 9. There it was chartered to take on a general cargo for Buenos Aires.

Sisters Will Replace Quintuplets' Nurses

North Bay, Ont., April 26.—(AP)—Judge J. A. Valin announced today that sisters of a religious order as yet not named, would replace the nurses who have cared for the Dionne quintuplets since shortly after their birth.

The changes are to be made at the end of May.

Judge Valin, who recently was appointed one of the babies' guardians, said Mme. Louise de Kiriline had asked to be relieved of her duties as nurse.

The judge, living in retirement here, was named as one of the guardians to the quintuplets by the Ontario government's legislation making the children wards of the King. The other guardians are Dr. A. R. D'Almeida, the physician to the infants, and Oliva Dionne, the father.

Miss Ida Frame Died
Tuesday at Home of a
Sister in Taylorville

Friends here have received word of the death of Miss Ida Frame, formerly of this city, Tuesday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Laura Pearson of Taylorville, Ill. For many years she lived with Mrs. C. G. Smith, and a few years ago went to Mt. Carroll to make her home with Mrs. Anna Lou McKenney, where she remained until a few weeks ago when she went to be with her sister when her health failed. She was an active member of the Methodist church and Sunday school here and had many friends. Funeral services were held in Taylorville Thursday afternoon.

Firemen Get Cattle Out of Burning Barn

A small barn at the Frank Wiggins home on Fargo avenue caught fire about 11:30 last night and the community fire truck was called. Firemen succeeded in removing cattle from the burning structure which was considerably damaged. The cause of the fire was not known.

At 3:15 yesterday afternoon the department made a run to Fifth street and Hennepin avenue where it was reported that an automobile had caught fire. The machine was only slightly damaged.

SENATE SILENT AS MEMBERS DE- NOUNCE PRIEST

North Carolinian Says Fr. Coughlin Stirs Depths of Hatred

Washington, April 26.—(AP)—Absorbed in the preliminary forming of political lines for 1936, the senate sought to assuage the effects of Senator Bailey's denunciation of Father Charles E. Coughlin as a man of "damnable ambition" who seeks to stir up the fountains of hate in a distressed land amongst a suffering people.

With third party talk very much in the air, observers also watched to see whether an answer might not be forthcoming soon to the question whether Father Coughlin and Senator Long (D-La.) may unite their forces in 1936.

Senator Long was ready to depart for Des Moines, Ia., where he will speak Saturday before the Farmers' Holiday national convention. The head of the Farmers' Holiday group, Nilo Reno, already has advocated a merging of Coughlin-Long forces.

Before a silently listening Senate, Senator Bailey, North Carolina Democrat, voiced his denunciation of Father Coughlin's activities.

Prefacing his remarks with an explanation that he would refer to the clergyman as "Coughlin," rather than "Father Coughlin," Bailey said:

"I left off his title, and I did it deliberately. In his church—and I shall always speak respectfully of all churches—he can be called 'Father' but he cannot be called 'Father' in American politics.

"In his church he may have his priestly robes and his power of absolution; but when he undertakes to promise a harp and a halo to the American people by political action, I challenge his priestly power.

"There is nothing more sinister in our life right now than this—that Coughlin, from the radio of the Shrine of the Little Flower—the little saint of suffering who interpreted his life by way of identifying himself with the agonies on the cross, who died expressing the prayer that he might return to earth to go to heaven, and come back, as she said in immortal words, in a shower of roses—from a shrine in her holy name that voice stirs the depths of hate throughout the land of liberty, and crucifies the American people upon his damnable ambition. Coughlin—not 'Father' Coughlin."

Bailey said he had "profound respect for the minister but when a minister 'goes out with his radio incendiaryism to stir up hate' I will snatch the halo from his brow and throw it into the nearest spittoon."

Suspect Cow Spreader of Rabies in Eldorado

Eldorado, Ill., April 26.—(AP)—Two infants are under the observation of a physician here to determine whether they contracted hydrophobia from the milk of a cow that had been bitten by a rabid dog.

The physician said 16 other persons, six in one family, six in another and four other persons, are taking Pasteur treatment.

The city of Eldorado has appealed to the state department of health for advice and assistance in the latest outbreak of the disease. Saline county was under a rabies quarantine most of last summer.

Another Landmark Has Given Way to Progress

Another Dixon landmark has met the ax. Fred French of Polo, who has been remodeling several old buildings and homes here is now razing what was once a very attractive house on Hennepin avenue, the property of the Misses Fannie and Laura Murphy. There are many pine trees and shrubs on the premises and the grounds which form part of the lawn of the Misses Murphy's home.

Sparrows Started Fire
in House by Carrying Cigarette to Attic

Council Bluffs, Ia., April 26.—(AP)—It was a fire bird, not a firebug that fired the home of Mrs. Mabel Gallagher of Council Bluffs. Fire Chief J. N. Cochran said the blaze was started by a sparrow carrying a lighted cigarette into its nest in the attic.

Boarding House Keeper Indicted for Murder

Belleville, Ill., Apr. 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Edith Williams, Fairmount City, was charged with murder in the death of Frank Finnell, railroad crossing watchman, in an indictment voted today by the St. Clair county grand jury.

Finnell was found beaten to death in Mrs. Williams' rooming house last March 12.

WAGNER LABOR BILL WILL BE SPED TO VOTE

Backers Seek to Beat NRA Measure Onto Senate Floor

Washington, April 26.—(AP)—Chairman Walsh (D-Mass.) predicted today the senate labor committee would report that Wagner labor relations bill to the senate next week in "substantially" its present form.

The committee has been working on the bill daily, but so far has taken no action on the major provisions. Walsh said, however, that there seemed to be little opposition in the committee to the bill as introduced by Senator Wegner (D-N.Y.).

Walsh predicted that unless new opposition to the measure arises in the senate, the bill will be passed without great difficulty.

With the finance committee starting work on the NRA extension bill, a virtual race developed between the Wagner bill and the recovery law to get to the floor first. Advocates of the labor bill have served notice they will offer it as an amendment to the NRA bill, if it is not previously passed on its own merits.

The attitude of President Roosevelt toward the disputed Wagner measure is still a matter of speculation. Senator Wagner has insisted that the president was friendly to the measure, but the chief executive's leaders on Capitol Hill have not been.

REPUBLICANS IN SENATE TO BACK VINSON PROPOSAL

Bonus Compromise is En- dangered by Threats of Legion Friends

Washington, April 26.—(AP)—The Harrison plan for compromising the troublesome bonus issue ran into threatened difficulties today in the form of a Republican drive for the Vinson bill to pay the bonus in full immediately.

Senate Republicans were lining up almost unanimously for the Vinson measure, which was defeated in the house by narrow margin. Senator McNary, minority leader, issued a call for a party conference tomorrow to discuss the issue.

The stand of the Republican forces threw a scare into the administration leaders who were seeking to put through the Harrison measure as a compromise which, its author says, would be acceptable to President Roosevelt.

May Upset Plans

A combination of Republicans and Democrats pledged to support full cash payment might easily upset the plans of the administration leaders to save Roosevelt from the necessity of vetoing a cash payment plan.

The compromise bill, which was approved yesterday by the senate finance committee, was introduced by Chairman Harrison of that committee, after a conference with the Chief Executive. While the White House has shied off from definite commitments, Roosevelt's friends were sure he would sign the bill if sent to him by congress. They have hoped it would solve the question, for the present at least.

In the committee the Republicans voted almost solidly for the Vinson plan rather than the Harrison bill. Even those like Senators Couzens (R. Mich.) and Hastings (R. Del.) who flatly oppose cash payment, voted for the Vinson measure in preference to the compromise.

Urges Inheritance Tax

Under present plans of administration leaders, the bonus bill will be called up in the Senate Monday. Harrison today made public a letter from Secretary Morgenthau proposing an inheritance tax system which could be used to cash the bonus, based on progressive rates running up to 60 per cent.

Morgenthau estimated that such a tax would yield about $300,000,000 in 1936 and might bring in as much as $600,000,000 annually thereafter.

Temporary Extension of NRA Urged Today

Washington, April 26.—(AP)—Starting to draft a new NRA bill, the senate finance committee today ran into a demand for temporary extension of the present recovery law so that the next session of congress could deal with the problem after supreme court decisions on its constitutionality.

The demand came from Senator Clark (D-Mo.), but the committee took no action.

Chairman Harrison said he would introduce, probably today, a series of amendments to the administration bill. They were understood to deal with some of the most controversial points such as relaxation of the anti-trust laws and price fixing.

Telephone Employee Had Narrow Escape in Crash

Harry E. Brown, Bell Telephone company employee of Rockford, narrowly escaped being seriously injured last evening about 5 o'clock, one mile west of Dixon on the Lincoln Highway. His car was reported to have been sideswiped by a Garrett, Ill. Brown's car was completely wrecked and State Highway Officer Edward Mahan, who was called to the scene of the wreck had the machine hauled to a local garage. Brown escaped with only a slight cut on his knee.

Polo and Apple River Bank Depositors Get 5 Per Cent Dividends

Freeport, Ill., April 26.—(AP)—Depositors of the closed First State Bank of Apple River today were receiving a dividend of 8 percent, the first to be paid, the receiver announced. At the same time depositors of the Polo State Bank were receiving a 5 percent dividend, raising to 35 per cent the total paid since the bank was closed.

MINISTERS SON TO PRISON

San Francisco—George Richard Townsend, 38, who said he was the son of a minister at Galva, Ill., was sentenced to serve from five years to life in San Quentin prison for robbing a woman of $17 last March 20. Police said he confessed stealing the money to buy narcotics.

Requests for Garbage Collection Should be Filed With Collector

Dixon citizens are again advised by City Clerk Blake Grover that all who wish to have garbage removed from their places of residence must notify the official collector, whose telephone number is L1178. Requests for this service should not be made of the City Clerk.

COMMITTEES IN CHARGE OF ROD- GUN CLUB MEET

Public Invited to At- tend and Hear Bob Becker May 7

Donald Originesen, president of the Rock River Valley Rod & Gun club of this city, today announced the appointment of the following committees for the banquet to be held at the Elks club house on Tuesday evening, May 7. On that occasion Bob Becker, outdoor editor of the Chicago Tribune will be the guest speaker and a portion of his talk will be devoted to moving pictures. The general public is invited to attend and hear this interesting talk.

The reception committee will be composed of George Netiz, chairman; Harry Stephan, Mayor William V. Slothower, Louis Pitcher and Dr. Hugh Burke, Commissioner Cal G. Tyler is chairman of the entertainment committee, the other members being: President, George B. Shaw of the Dixon Chamber of Commerce; Sheriff Ward T. Millre, Postmaster John E. Moyer and Police Magistrate A. E. Simonson.

Dr. Henry J. McCoy has been named chairman of the banquet committee, his associates being John L. Davies and Rae Arnold. The membership committee consists of Arthur L. Wilson, chairman; Arthur Burneisher, Guy H. Merriam, Ralph Zarger, Paul Fry and George Rhoades.

Central Ill. Light Co. to Reduce Rates

Chicago, Apr. 26.—(AP)—A reduction in electric rates for more than 40 cities and towns served by the Central Illinois Light Company was recommended to the Illinois Commerce Commission today by Harry R. Booth, assistant attorney for the commission, and William A. Dittmer, utility expert for the commission.

The recommendation followed a conference between Booth, Dittmer, and officials of the utility company.

Domestic and commercial rate reductions in the DeKalb-Sycamore territory as well as in Peoria and Springfield suburban areas are provided in the recommendation. Both said the commercial rates in Peoria and Pekin would be reduced and that domestic and power rates also might be adjusted.

New York State's NRA Act Invalid

Albany, N. Y., April 26.—(AP)—The New York state NRA enforcement statute, known as the Shackleman act, was declared unconstitutional by the Court of Appeals today.

The court was divided four to three.

The Court of Appeals is the highest court in the Empire State.

The decision was handed down in the case of a Binghamton coal dealer, Gustave C. Darweger, who obtained an injunction in the lower court restraining the coal code authority from enforcing floor level prices in the industry.

Mother, Son Sentenced to Hang for Seven-Year Old Murder in Delaware

Georgetown, Del., April 26.—(AP)—Mary H. Carey, 52, and a son, Howard Carey, were sentenced today to be hanged in Sussex county jail June 7 for the slaying of the woman's brother more than seven years ago. Another son, James Carey, 23, was sentenced to life imprisonment.

James Eccles Passed Away Thursday Night

James Eccles, well known Sublette citizen, who had been ill for some time, passed away at 8 o'clock Thursday evening at the Amboy hospital. Funeral services will be held at 9 o'clock Monday morning at Our Lady of Perpetual Help church in Sublette, with burial in Sandy Hill cemetery. Obituary will be published later.

MISS M'GEE IN PLEA FOR OWN PEACE OF MIND

Asks Missouri's Chief Executive to Spare Kidnapers' Life

Jefferson City, Mo., April 26.—(AP)—Miss Mary McElroy pleaded with Governor Guy F. Parks today to spare the life of Walter H. McGee, leader of the gang that kidnapped her for $30,000 ransom nearly two years ago.

Virtually all legal avenues of escaping the gallows had been closed to McGee when the 26-year-old daughter of H. F. McElroy, city manager of Kansas City, visited the governor—in behalf, she said, of both kidnaper and victim.

"I'm pleading for Walter McGee's life, I am pleading for my own peace of mind," said the tall brunette in her formal appeal to the executive.

She was accompanied here by her father.

Miss McElroy previously had expressed sympathy for the men convicted on her testimony and had disclosed the thought of sending McGee to his doom was a "nightmare" praying on her mind.

She expressed the belief that the "full force of the law has been emphasized" and that McGee's case would serve as a warning to others.

From her own standpoint, the girl said if the sentence were carried out, McGee "would even have this advantage: He would not have to think about his execution afterwards."

McGee, the first person in the United States to be given the death penalty for kidnapping, is in jail in Kansas City under sentence to be hanged May 10.

Division No. 2 of the state supreme court refused a rehearing of his appeal yesterday.

After the McElroys had spent 30 minutes in his private office, Governor Parks said:

"I did not indicate to them what course I would take." He added he had "no idea" when he would act on Miss McElroy's plea.

Adult Educational Classes Suspended

Adult education classes for unemployed or any others interested will be discontinued indefinitely following the Monday night sessions. It was announced today.

Lack of funds has forced closing of the classes until further notice. It was explained. The remaining money will be used for direct relief purposes to meet the emergency caused by the stopping of work relief.

For several weeks classes have been conducted in business English, business mathematics, woodcraft, mechanical drawing, sewing, and English for the foreign born. Sewing, mechanical drawing, woodwork, and business mathematics classes will meet Monday night for their final sessions. The classes were held at South Central school and Dixon high school.

George Crawford's Auto Stolen Late Last Eve

A Chevrolet sedan belonging to George Crawford was stolen from the front of his residence 204 East Third street last night about 10:45. A strange man was observed tampering with the car about ten minutes before, and was said to have driven the machine east on Third street after he succeeded in starting the motor. The theft was reported to the police shortly after 11 o'clock and police of several surrounding cities were notified. The car bore 1935 license plates, 1-094-654.

Omnibus Banking Bill Freed from Gag Rule

Washington, April 26.—(AP)—Discarding "gag" suggestions, the rules committee decided today to bring the controversial omnibus banking bill before the house next week under procedure leaving the measure wide open to amendments.

Fifteen hours of debate — more than has been granted on any other bill this session except the social security measure — will be permitted.

The bill will be brought up Monday for debate.

PLAYED BADLY

By Joseph Fort Newton
BEETHOVEN played badly," one of his biographers records, when in 1815 he played in public for the last time. "The strings of the piano were nearly cracked and some notes were almost inaudible."

Beethoven! The greatest musician that ever lived, whose genius called into being more heavenly melodies than were ever heard by any one mind on this earth! Yet he played badly that last night!

Was it because he was old, and his hands were less soft in striking the notes he knew so well? Or was it due to the deafness that afflicted him in middle life and deepened each year until the end?

In part, perhaps. For even the most godlike of men grow old, their swift skill slows down, and their magic is lost. Age dulls the spirit, but that was not the real reason why the master played badly.

Not at all. The reason was that he was trying to play a sonata on "a miserable little box of wires, hardly more sonorous than a spinnet." It was an inadequate instrument that made the jangled music.

As his biographer adds, "Born in to a day of small things, he helped the day to expand by giving it creations beyond the scope of its available means of expression. He was an emancipator of humanity."

The sonata, as a musical structure, had been known for two hundred years before, but Beethoven enlarged and enriched it, lifting it into undreamed-of associations of power and loveliness.

Yes, he was an emancipator. He took an old form of music, baptized it in the gleaming waters of his genius, and forced men to invent new instruments to match the majesty of his God-illumined art.

May not this be true of much of the discord of life, whether it be in our own hearts or in the world about us? There is music in life, unheard melodies, but our poor instruments are not equal to it.

28th Wedding Anniversary Celebrated
Thursday Mr. and Mrs. William Kastner celebrated their twenty-eighth wedding anniversary. So last evening Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kastner, a son and daughter-in-law delightedly entertained in their honor, the affair being a happy surprise to the bride and groom of twenty-eight years. There were present thirty-five relatives and friends.

One of the diversions of the evening was a mock wedding which proved an entertaining feature. Music and chat sped the happy hours.

Delicious refreshments were served, and a three-tier pink and white wedding cake, graced the table, with a bride and groom decorating the center. Pink and white flowers were other table decorations.

Later those assembled presented to Mr. and Mrs. Kastner with best wishes for continued happiness, a nice chair and a reading lamp, which was received with gracious words of appreciation. The entire evening proved one of great enjoyment to everyone attending.

Award Scholarship To Miss Swanson
Miss Elizabeth Swanson, daughter of Mrs. Mae Coddington Swanson of Rochelle, formerly of Oregon, had the honor of winning a scholarship from the Paul Ash College of Screen, Radio and Stage, Chicago. Miss Swanson a sophomore in high school has been a student of the Paul Ash College the past year in special training in acrobatic, ballet, tap and Spanish dancing, going to Chicago each week end.

She appeared in a Warner Bros. photo play "Cinemania" produced by students of the Paul Ash School. First showing of the picture was last Friday evening at the Sherman Hotel ballroom and the awarding of the scholarship.

It was estimated that 20,000 people had witnessed the production.

Pineapple Juice Cocktail

Roast Veal and Browned Potatoes

Broccoli

Mock Hollandaise Sauce

Rolls

Tomato Jelly Salad

Devil's Food Special

Coffee

Mock Hollandaise Sauce

3 tablespoons butter

2 tablespoons flour

1-2 cups milk

1-4 teaspoon salt

1-4 teaspoon paprika

3 egg yolks

1 tablespoon lemon juice

Melt butter and add flour. When blended, add milk and cook until sauce thickens a little. Add rest of ingredients and cook 1 minute. Serve immediately poured over the cooked broccoli which has been placed in serving dish.

Egg yolks are leftovers from cake frosting.

Devil's Food Special

2-3 cup butter

1-2 cups sugar

1 teaspoon vanilla

1-8 teaspoon salt

3 eggs

1 cup sour milk (or buttermilk)

2-1-2 squares chocolate

3 tablespoons water

2 cups pastry flour

1 teaspoon soda

1 teaspoon baking powder

Mix chocolate and water. Cook slowly, stirring constantly until the chocolate has melted. Beat well. Cream butter and sugar. Add rest of ingredients, including chocolate mixture. Beat 2 minutes. Pour into 2 layer cake pans lined with waxed papers. Bake 25 minutes in moderately slow oven. Cool and frost.

Meeting of W. C. T. U. Held Wednesday

The regular monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held in the Methodist church Wednesday afternoon at 2:30, the president presiding the opening song being: "Some Glad Day."

The subject for the afternoon was "Temperance and Missions" and proved an interesting program, presented by Mrs. Marion Maben.

Miss Callie Morgan, president, led the devotion on Boundless Love, quoting John 3:16, as the foundation of helpful devotion, closing with several prayers by members.

The Salute to the flag was given. The song, "White Ribbon Vibrations," was sung.

Miss Flora Seals, secretary, gave her report, and Mrs. W. W. Fry, the treasurer, gave her report; both reports being accepted as read.

It was decided to change back to the old meeting day of Friday for the remainder of the year.

Mrs. Marian Maben gave a very interesting explanation of temperance and missions and their help in the W. C. T. U. work.

Mrs. Frey and Miss Kate Plant gave a splendid explanation of the Light Line Union and what it meant to a Union to be one.

"Hands Across the Sea" was given by Miss Flora Seals.

How a Missionary farmer stopped beer drinking, was an interesting leaflet given by Mrs. Alice Missman.

"National Women's Christian Temperance Union of Japan" was given by Miss Carrie Belle Swartz.

Song, "White Ribbon Rally." "Temperance and Missions in China" was given by Mrs. D. C. Leake.

Collection was taken.

This very interesting and worthwhile meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. Marian Maben.

Mrs. Bunnell President Ill. War Mothers

Aurora, Apr. 26 —(AP)—Mrs. Clea Bunnell, Dixon, appeared to have no opposition for presidency of the Illinois War Mothers at the group's 16th annual convention. The next convention will be held in Waukegan.

BLACK 'N' BLUE MODES Costumes by Muriel King Distinguished by Clever Skirt and Collar Designs

Greater fullness is achieved in this costume at left, designed by Muriel King for the American Designers Forum at Atlantic City, by cutting a straight front and bias back and finishing with bias band all around the hem. The dress is of black gabardine with self-lacing up the bodice front. With it is worn a short jacket of pink upholstery fabric in herringbone design. At right is a classic blue crepe outfit. It has three collars in addition to the clown version, to give variety to the costume; in red, white and beige, they can be worn separately or all together. (From Hadden Hall, Atlantic City)

Enjoyable Meeting Of the Ideal Club

Mrs. Howard Beam was hostess to a most enjoyable meeting of the Ideal Club, which was held at her home, Wednesday afternoon, April 24th.

Bouquets of spring flowers were tastefully arranged for decorations. Roll call was responded to with timely items on wild flowers, which this season of the year makes doubly interesting.

The chapters from the study book, "Alaska", were entertainingly read by Mrs. H. W. Leydig, followed by a general discussion of the subject matter.

At the close of the program, the hostess served delicious refreshments.

Dixon Young People to Wed in June

Miss Margaret Janssen and Lee Huffman, two popular and estimable young people of Dixon, will be united in marriage during the early part of June. Their many friends extend best wishes in advance for happiness. They will make their home in Dixon.

Miss Kathryn Curtin Bride W. J. Carthaus

Miss Kathryn Elaine Curtin became the bride of William James Carthaus, at St. Ita's church, Chicago, Monday, April 22 at 4 P. M.

The church was gorgeous in palms and Easter lilies and the ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. Conway.

Miss Frances Curtin was maid of honor and Miss Lillian Curtin was bridesmaid. Mr. Carthaus' best man was B. J. Majewski and the ushers were W. W. Rice, John and Richard Curtin. The bride was given in marriage by her father. During the ceremony Rev. Fr. Coyle sang the "Ave Maria."

The bride was beautiful in her gown of white satin and wore a veil of tulle and orange blossoms. She carried an arm bouquet of calla lilies tied with white satin ribbon. The maid of honor and bridesmaid were dressed alike in pale blue chiffon and tea rose, their accessories all matching, and carried bouquets of tea roses.

The wedding dinner was served at 6 P. M. in the Sheridan room of the Edgewater Beach hotel.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Curtin of Amboy. She is a graduate of the Amboy Township high school and Mercy hospital, Chicago, and for the past two years has been in the employ of Dr. Deno P. O'Connor, E. N. T. specialist.

Mr. Carthaus is the only son of Mrs. William F. Carthaus of St. Louis and is graduate of St. Louis high school and the University of Illinois. At present he is general sales manager of the Deep Rock Oil Corporation.

Mr. and Mrs. Carthaus left on the Santa Fe "Chief" for a month's trip through the west and on their return will be at home to their many friends in a beautiful apartment which the groom has furnished for his bride.

DARROW'S DEEDS BELIE HIS WORDS OF DESPAIR

Clarence Darrow tells reporters that he is a tired old man now, waiting for death, and adds that he is positive that after death there will be nothing else to wait for, ever.

"I no longer doubt," he says. "I know now that there is nothing after death—nothing to look forward to in joy or fear. I am not an agnostic any more; I am a materialist. There is no evidence under the sun of a super-natural power."

Darrow is not the first man to come to this gloomy conclusion. As long ago as Old Testament days, the writer of Ecclesiastes seems to have had somewhat the same notion.

But just as this Old Testament scribe belied his own doubts by proving that the human spirit can transcend its fleshly limitations, so Darrow, too, in a different way, has left a record that makes his own materialism look hollow.

Clarence Darrow has had a long and active life, and a great deal of it has been filled with desperate, last-ditch battles for men less fortunate than himself. And when you have made all possible allowances for a keen lawyer's delight in the game itself, and for the incentive which high fees can provide, there remains something else which is not accounted for on any basis of strict materialism.

For underneath everything else, Darrow has been moved by a rich human sympathy, an understanding of erring humanity, and a warm desire to take the side of the man whom everybody is against which does not precisely jibe with any philosophy of soulless mechanism.

To try to look beyond the veil is a hopeless proceeding;
and if a man cannot accept the assurances of religion, he must look for traces of a better world than this,
if he is to find them at all, in the hearts of his fellow men.

There is something about this urge which comes to men like Darrow to take the part of men who cannot fight for themselves which can seem like the soundest of all evidences.

This old warhorse, who has never been too tired to fight somebody else's battle, may think of himself as a blind and helpless pawn of chance, wandering under a starless sky.

But somehow he hasn't acted like one. His deeds have been like the deeds of a man who has seen a gleam of light at the edge of the horizon and who, seeing it, has known that there is more to life than some of us suppose.
He has built his life by a pattern that would be useless
if his own despondent belief were true.

His life is about finished, and his words are hopeless.
But his life itself is the very stuff of which human hope is made.

BACK TO RIVER TRAFFIC

After decades of idleness, the Missouri river once again is to become a highway for commerce. On June 7 navigation will reopen along the "Big Muddy," and a string of barges will leave St. Louis in charge of a tug, carrying freight to Kansas City.

While all this will present harassed railway traffic managers with more reason to furrow their brows, it is probably true that on the whole it represents a step in the right direction.

We may not be quite sure, just yet, how we are going to solve our transportation problems. But it is surely logical to suppose that any step which makes transportation cheaper is a good one to take.

It is worth remembering that if we ever really exploit our vast industrial resources to their fullest extent, we shall need all the transportation facilities available—and wish we had more.

PASS THE APPLE PIE

Among the other things agitating Congress these days is an argument over the comparative merits of the apple pies of Oregon and New York.

It started when Representative William A. Ekwall passed around some Oregon apples and asserted that apples from the Hood river valley are the tastiest in the world. For reply, Representative James P. Duffy of New York submitted a great stack of pies made with New York apples and invited his colleagues to taste and be convinced.

About all that can be said at this distance is that the whole business is a break for the congressmen. Apple pie is apple pie, whether it comes from Oregon, New York, or somewhere else; and if the argument inspires local pride to the production of bigger and better ones, all of us can give thanks.

THE FOLLY OF THE LAW

Mr. Bumble's immortal declaration that "the law is an ass" is not without plenty of confirmation. Sometimes the supporting evidence is pretty tragic.

As an instance, consider the case of the unmarried housemaid in Austria who was sentenced to two months' imprisonment the other day because her baby froze to death in her arms.

When her child was born, the girl's employers immediately turned her out of their house. She went to her parents' home, and they likewise refused to admit either her or her child. So she started trudging off through the cold on a several-mile hike to her grandparents. On the way the baby froze to death.

Now she has been jailed for "an offense against the security of life."

If the law is not, at times, just as much of an ass as Mr. Bumble said it was, wouldn't that accusation have been leveled against either her employers or her parents?

we know how," said Scouty, with a smile.

"The owner said that his beasts would come right back home, just as they should. Let's turn them loose. They'll reach their destination after while."

"Aw, gee I hate to see them go," said Dotly. "They've made quite a show. I wish that we could travel 'round the country for a spell. But, still, I guess we've had enough. The going would be rather rough. So, do as Scouty says, lads. Turn them loose. We may as well."

Then, down the road the cages went. "I hope the owner knows we've sent our thanks," said Dotly.
"He has furnished us with lots of fun."

"We're really lucky Tynmites.
We've traveled 'round and seen the sights, but with the circus we have had our greatest bit of fun."

"Well, I don't know," said Dotly.
"Gee, the finest sort of sport, to me, is finding places where we can flop down and take a snooze."

"We have no set plans we must keep, so we have lots of time to sleep. It never makes much difference, if days and days we lose."

"For once, I think that Dotly's right," cried Coppy. "It is almost night, and I suggest, right now, that we pick out a snoozing spot."
"I know what would appeal to me. A dandy place beneath a tree.
There's just enough breeze blowing,
so we will not be too hot."

The others also felt tired out, so they began to look about. Then Dotly cried, "Ah! Here's the place.
This really will be grand."

She led them to a monstrous elm and said, "Now we are in the realm of comfort. Very shortly, they hitched to the front. "Well, lads, at least, we've done the best that we know how," said Scouty, with
a smile.

NAMES FOR FRANKFURTERS

Frankfurters were first made in Frankfurt a'Main, Germany, centuries ago. They take their name from that city. They have many aliases. In the Middle West they are frequently called "wienies." Philadelphia call them "hot smokes" and in any ball park they are "red hots." They are also called "Coney Islands" in the Middle West.

ASHTON NEWS

Ashton—In honor of Mrs. E. B. Arnold's 77th birthday anniversary, which occurred Sunday, a group of relatives from Franklin Grove and Dixon arrived at her home Sunday morning, bringing with them tempting dishes for a dinner in honor of the event. Those present were Joe, Lucy and Eunice Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Miller and son, Mr. and Mrs. Claire Colwell, Mr. and Mrs. George Westfield and son, Mr. and Mrs. William Trowbridge, Miss Blanche Gilbert, Mrs. Colwell and daughter all of Franklin Grove and Mr. and Mrs. Art Brucker of Dixon.

Mrs. Arnold received many very beautiful gifts to remind her of the pleasant day and also the best wishes of all present for many more happy birthdays. Her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Coe of Springfield spent Monday and Tuesday at the Arnold home.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Moore entertained the following guests at their home Friday in honor of Mrs. Moore's sister, Miss Adeline Stevenson of Moorhead, Minn., Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Stowell of Peoria, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Turnbull of Spear, and Miss Emily Root of Chillicothe, Miss Stevenson, who has been a guest in the Moore home the past week, departed Saturday for Chicago where she will visit a few days.

Mrs. Sophia Stayre of West Chicago was a guest Saturday and Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Killmer.

Nazis Get Out the Vote—Even in Litters

The Nazi organization's desperate drive to obtain an overwhelming majority in the Danzig parliamentary elections led to enactment of this scene in front of one of the polling places. A swastika squad of election workers is shown carrying an aged invalid woman from the polling place to her home after she had cast her ballot. Nevertheless the Nazis fell far short of their goal.

of town has been quite ill the past week with the measles.

Considerable work has been done the past few weeks in improving the Kersten ball park in the northwest corner of town, which will add greatly to the convenience and enjoyment of the baseball fans.

Two sections of very comfortable bleachers have been erected, one on the east side and one on the south side of the diamond, next to the backstop which has been repaired. A booth has been built in front of the scorekeepers will be stationed and the diamond has been leveled off.

Fine stone roads have been laid in the alleys on the east and south sides of the park and a fence is being built to enclose the park on these sides.

The Philathea Class of the Presbyterian Sunday school were entertained at the home of Miss Jessie Clover on Wednesday evening. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. A. J. Orner, Mrs. Clarence Ogle and Mrs. John Watkins.

The exceptionally delightful weather over Easter Sunday, which was so much appreciated by everyone, brought out unusually large congregations to the churches of Ashton. Special Easter services were held in all of the churches. The sunrise devotional services as well as all other services during the day were very largely attended.

There will be a meeting of the softball players at the town hall Friday evening (tonight) at 8 o'clock. All players and anyone interested in the community, are cordially invited to attend.

Miss Dorothy Dean was the guest of her friend Miss Rogene Henert over Wednesday night.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist church will hold their regular monthly business meeting at the church Thursday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

The Good Will Circle of the Methodist church will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Edgar Shippee on Tuesday evening, April 30.

Owing to the fact that Rev. P. O. Bailey, pastor of the Evangelical church is attending the annual conference of the Illinois Evangelical churches which is being held at Highland Park this week and over Sunday, there will be no choir practice or Bible Study, and no preaching services. All who do not attend the conference are urged to be present at the Sunday school service at 9:30 A. M.

Robert Dean a Junior at the University of Illinois, was elected treasurer of Sigma Delta Chi, national professional Journalism fraternity, for the coming year, 1935-36, at a meeting of the organization last week.

Harry Nass submitted to an operation at St. Luke's hospital in Chicago Friday.

The former Rosecrans building, now owned by William Klingebiel, has been in the hands of painters this week when the building has been much improved by a coat of red, finally finished in aluminum paint. This will also be a great improvement in the business district.

Mr. and Mrs. Faust H. Boyd entertained at dinner Sunday Mrs. Sophia Strayne of West Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. William Killmer and son George, Alfred Killmer and daughter Alice, Fred Anderson and son and daughter of West Chicago, were Sunday afternoon callers at the Boyd home and were accompanied home by Mrs. Strayne.

Kenneth Hogan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hogan of Pine Rock township, passed away Tuesday morning after a little over a week's illness from pneumonia, from which complications developed when he was thought to be out of danger.

Kenneth was born April 24, 1907 in Pine Rock township, where he spent his entire life, and would have been 28 years of age on Wednesday. He was married on January 19, 1933 to Miss Anna Jacobs, who, with his small son, Russell LeRoy, his father and mother, one sister, Harriett Hogan and his grandfather, John Drummond, survive.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the house and at 2 P. M. from the Washington Grove church, with Rev. A. J. Tavenner, pastor of the Rockford Centennial Methodist Church officiating, assisted by Rev. Winter and Rev. Sanford. Burial was in Washington Grove cemetery.

Ashton high school classes were visited Friday morning and Monday, by several college students who were home to spend the Easter vacation. The Misses Rowena Schafer, Catherine, Lois and Margaret Hanawalt, Robert Dean and Casper Hanawalt were among those who renewed former memories and friendships in the halls and classrooms of the school.

Mrs. Turner and daughter, Mrs. Rose Stagg of Urbana, who have been guests over the week end at the home of the former's daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley McCrea, returned to their home on Tuesday, accompanying H. R. Romick, who drove down to take his son Darrell and Edgar Shippee back to the University of Illinois.

The Fireside Keeper's Home Economic Club of the high school held their regular meeting Monday afternoon. The following were elected to serve as officers:

President, Orva Landis. Vice President, Arlene Schinzer. Secretary, Inez Krug. Treasurer, Gladys Gonnerman. Chorister and Cheer Leader, Dorothy Dean.

Dr. N. C. Calhoun has been confined to his home by illness the past few days.

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Griffith entertained over Easter their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. C. Young and family, of Freeport.

CONSTANT FREE FOOD

The only kitchen in the world through which free food constantly flows is located in the basement of the great Cistercian monastery in Alcobaca, Portugal, says Collier's Weekly. Whenever fish is wanted for dinner, all the chef has to do to get a supply is to lower his net into the branch of the Alcoa river, which conveniently runs right through the middle of this gigantic room.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

LET JUSTICE PREVAIL

Edito—In Dixon, Lee county, the week of April 15, Holy Week, the trial of Charles Skinner for the murder of Olive Derwent was started.

The law will take its course, slow but inevitable. The man who with wanton cunning planned against and took the life of that young girl will pay for his crime. His peers, the good people of the state of Illinois, will by the word of their jury, decide his fate.

We say—"pay for his crime"—but can crime such as this ever be paid for? Can retribution, however extreme, bring back to the sorrowing parents their only daughter? Can it give again to those young boys their sister's love? To her friends, their comrade? We know the answer. There is no punishment to fit his crime.

Who was Olive Derwent? Daughter of Isabelle and Walter Derwent of Amboy, blue eyed, seventeen, devoted to home and family, to church and school Junior in high school, popular, happy, full of the joy of living and planning for the years ahead. Unlike the usual girl of her age, this one enjoyed almost entirely the companionship of other girls. The opposite sex had as yet no especial place in her interest.

As to this beast, moron, call him what you will—there is no name for him nor any place on this good earth for a creature such as he. We are not going to dwell on his unnatural and secret passion for the child of his neighbor. Let us only state what is already known, that she was the innocent object of his dark thoughts. Sensing only that from his house nearby he watched her come and go, she did not understand and consequently did not fear enough.

Here was nearly a double murder. The assassin's shots found a second target as utterly unprepared as Olive for that quick dash toward eternity. Johnny Scott, young business man of Amboy, likewise respected by friends and neighbors escorted the girl home in his car from the picture show where she and two girl companions had spent the evening.

Before her door, and in her own mother's hearing, the tragedy occurred. Johnny and Olive were not lovers. No such thought was in the mind of either. Whoever happened to be with the girl on her return home that fatal night would have been co-victim of the attack. Fortunately Mr. Scott's life was spared his wounds proving not serious. The young undertaker recovered sufficiently to prepare five days later for its last resting place the body of the girl whose friend he had long been.

It must have been something of a comfort to those dear to her that he, whose effort had been toward her protection, should be the one to perform the rite. And he himself must have felt the task a distinct honor.

The deed is done, it cannot be undone. Olive is forever safe from harm or evil. But we have the murderer. Let justice now prevail.

DAILY HEALTH

PAGET'S DISEASE

Paget's disease, brought to public attention again by recent newspaper accounts of the extraordinary changes suffered by a person afflicted with the disease, gets its name from Sir James Paget, who originally described the condition in 1877. He called it osteitis deformans which means that the disease involves the bones and results in deformities.

Curved and shortened legs, bent and distorted chest and flattened and enlarged skull are among the changes caused by the disease.

The cause of Paget's disease still remains undefined. However, it is suspected that in some fashion or another the parathyroid glands are involved.

The parathyroid glands are the glands of internal secretion located in and about the region of the thyroid. These glands secrete a substance known as parathormone, and it has been demonstrated that an excessive secretion of this produces profound disturbances in the body's utilization and retention of calcium and phosphorus.

In Paget's disease the bones become demineralized, that is, they lose much of their calcium content.

The disease usually develops among those in middle life or later. The enlargement of the skull is often the first symptom, though deformities of the long bones of the leg, particularly of the shin bone may be noted first.

Certain cases complain of pains, while others are comparatively painless. In the early stages, Paget's disease is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism or neuritis.

A spontaneous fracture, that is, the breaking of a bone without sufficient cause in the form of violence a fall, or a blow, or the development of marked deformity, usually leads to more careful study and the consequent making of a correct diagnosis.

The treatment of the disease is as yet unsatisfactory.

MEANEST PLACE IN CANADA

Meanest place in all Canada is this silvery peak of Mount Waddington, more popularly known as Mount Mystery. Jutting 13,260 feet through the roof of the Canadian Rockies, Waddington is virtually as inaccessible as Everest, the frigid queen of the Himalayas. Man has tried to conquer it time and again, only to be beaten.

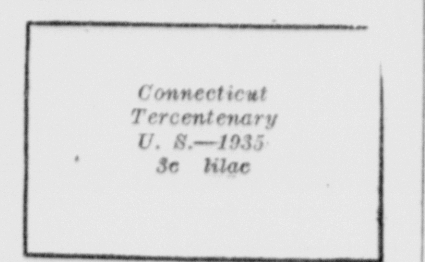

Stories in STAMPS

The OAK that SAVED A CHARTER

THE new U. S. stamp that is being issued in commemoration of the settlement of Connecticut some 300 years ago bears a picture of the famous Charter Oak, at Hartford, which played an important part in the history of that state.

When, in 1687, Gov. Sir Edmund Andros tried to take away Connecticut's royal charter, which gave the colony practically local independence, the candlelights on the table where the document lay suddenly were blown out. When they were relit, the document was gone. One of the colonists had hidden it in a hollow of the famous old oak. A storm destroyed the tree in 1856, and today a granite monument marks its site.

GOOD THOUGHTS

There comes a moment in every man's life when he discovers himself; when he finds the years of labor and experience have laid a foundation upon which he must stand, and that foundation is either strong or weak according to the manner in which he has built.

—Abraham Lincoln

Life is not a tragedy and a purposeless ending in nothing—but an opportunity glorious, with the challenge of a definite purpose.

—Sir Wilfred Grenfell

In accumulating property for ourselves or our posterity, in founding a family or a state, or acquiring fame, even—we are mortal; but in dealing with truth, we are immortal, and need fear no change nor accident.

—Robert Browning

Whoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him to a wise man, which built his house upon a rock; and the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell not; for it was founded upon a rock.

—Matthew 7

As in material building, so in mental; the first essential is a good foundation; and Christ Jesus declared that to hear his sayings and put them into practice was to build upon the only reliable foundation. . . . When he withdrew from his fellows to spend hours of silent communion with the Father, he assuredly turned to infinite Mind and listened for the divine ideas which Mind never ceases to pour forth, and which every humble listener can hear. In infinite Mind, each one can find the right ideas necessary to the building up in individual consciousness of a structure which the winds of adversity and the storms of sickness and discord, can never overthrow.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

E. Third St., near Galena Ave.
J. Franklin Young, Minister
Bible school at 9:30. If you do not now belong to some other school we would be happy to enroll you.

Morning worship at 10:45. The theme, "Delivered by the Young Men," will recognize "Youth Week" in this service. The choir will sing a special selection.
Monday at 7:30 Adjourned meeting of the Board of Trustees at the Manse. Important.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

Gilbert Stansell, Pastor
The Methodists of Dixon-land will welcome their new superintendent, the Reverend Ralph M. Pierce, D. D. of Evanston, Sunday morning. He will conduct the service and preach at 10:45. This will be Doctor Pierce's first appearance in the pulpit of First church, and there is decided eagerness in the parish to hear the message. Doctor Pierce has held pastorates in three of the larger churches of Methodism during recent years. His District, the Joliet-Dixon, extends from a point near the Indiana state line west to the Mississippi river. Everyone is cordially invited to hear Doctor Pierce.
At the 7:30 evening hour the people will have the opportunity of hearing another splendid preacher, the Reverend Ruben Furnish of Rock Falls. He will be supported by the Men's Chorus under the leadership of Henry A. Ahrens, with Crawford Thomas at the organ and Louis Leydig at the piano. All are invited to support this service.

These two vigorous preachers are visiting and serving because the pastor, Dr. Gilbert Stansell, will be the memorial preacher Sunday morning at the one hundredth anniversary service of the First Methodist church of Paw Paw, Michigan, the church to which he was appointed as pastor immediately following his marriage to Ethel Southard. Mrs. Stansell will accompany Dr. Stansell, and many fine people who had their training in this historic church will be present.

The church school will convene at 9:45. It is hoped that the fine attendance of last Sunday will be duplicated.

The Epworth Leaguers will discuss a very interesting subject, the Summer Institute, who should attend and why. They meet at 6:00.

Mid-week service Wednesday evening at 7:30. All who will be invited to join this group who are helping the pastor with the opportunities of The On-to-Pentecost Program, the weeks from April 21 to June 9.

The month of May will be Loyalty Month again, and everyone in any way connected with the church is invited to help the pastor and workers in the effort to secure as nearly 100 per cent attendance each of the five Sundays as possible.

The Mother-Daughter banquet will be the evening of May 7; the last Men's club dinner of the season will be the evening of May 14; the Wiley Male Quartet the evening of May 15; the annual Mother's Day service the morning of May 12; the Memorial Day service the morning of May 26; the pastor will preach on "Receive Ye The Holy Spirit" the morning of May 5 and "The Christian Mission" the morning of the 19th. The church choir will do its best in the morning as will the Men's chorus in the evening.

Official Board Monday evening, April 29th the five groups meeting at 7.

A. G. Suechting, Pastor
(First Sunday After Easter)
Divine worship at 9:00 A. M.
Sunday school at 10:00 A. M.
Thursday, May 2, Luther League meeting at 8:00 P. M.

The special services begin this Sunday and will continue until Pentecost. Sermon theme: "The Burning Heart." Vocal duet by Mabel and Alvina King of Eldena. An adult class is being organized. Kindly inform the pastor or one of the ushers if you are interested. Every member is expected to bring a friend to the services.

The Sunday school teachers met Wednesday evening at the church. Mrs. Schamberger was reelected as Supt. Bertha Knight was elected Secretary-Treasurer. Floyd White was added to the Sunday school teaching staff. The teachers decided to prepare a program for Children's Day.

Those who are interested in joining the adult class are kindly requested to be at the church Sunday at 9:00 A. M. Several young men and women have already expressed their desire to attend the lectures given by the pastor during the adult instruction. There will be no public examination for the adult class. That will be in private.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Corner Hennepin Ave. & Sec. St.
James A. Barnett, Pastor
Bible school at 9:30 A. M. James G. Leach, Supt.; Golda Cunningham, Supt. of Children. Classes for all ages.

Preaching and worship at 10:45. The Lord's Supper in charge of the Elders. Special music by the choir in charge of Mrs. Ora Tice, director. Lois Fellows at the organ. Sermon by the pastor, "Why Are There So Many Kinds of Churches in the World."

Christian Endeavor at 6:30 P. M. Marcella Bennett, President.
Junior C. E. in charge of Nadine Padgett, Supt.

At 7:30 the fourth feature Sunday evening service will be held. There will be special music by the choir under direction of Mrs. Tice with Clinton Fahrney at the organ. The pastor will preach a special sermon entitled, "The Secret of Happiness in Married Life." The newly married couples will be guests of honor. A section of the church will be reserved for couples the pastor has married. He has sent out special invitations to more than fifty couples in Dixon and vicinity whom he has married in the four years of his ministry here. A gift will be presented to the oldest couple present, the most recently married couple, the couple with largest family of children present, and to the youngest grandmother present.

Inspection Trip to Great Lakes Station Has Been Called Off

Washington, D. C.—Plans for a plane trip of two house sub-committees to Waukegan, Ill., to consider the advisability of reopening the Great Lakes naval training station were halted when the naval affairs committee said the planes were not available. It was said the postponement was made when Rep. Buckbee, (R. Ill.) objected on the grounds that publicity would hamper chances of appropriating $250,000 proposed for the reopening.

PRIZES CAN BE WON NOW . . .

Best Vote Offer In Campaign Ends Saturday, May 4th

New Nominee or One Now Entered Can Get Winning Votes Next Few Days.

Saturday night, May 4th, the present big vote schedule ends. Never again after that time will subscriptions count for so many votes. Just six more working days after today and the best opportunity of the entire campaign closes. It is essential that every remaining hour of this short period be used to the fullest advantage. Any candidate expecting to win one of the larger prizes cannot waste a moment's time during these, all important, next few days.

Can Win Now.

The votes needed to win any prize in the list can be secured between now and a week from tomorrow night. The candidate making the most of the next few days will in all probability win the $1,000.00 cash prize. Candidates should realize the full importance of the first period vote schedule. It is entirely possible for any candidate to build up a lead during the first period that others will not be able to overcome later on when subscriptions count for many less votes than now. Between now and Saturday, May 4th, a candidate can actually earn $250, $400, $700, or $1,000.

New Subscriptions.

With the 60,000 bonus votes offered on each new subscription candidates should concentrate on these during the next few days. Only ten such subscriptions will, including club votes, count 1,000,000 votes if secured by May 4th. After that there is a substantial reduction in votes. Long term subscriptions too, point to the short cut to big votes. A 5-year new subscription counts 700,000 votes. What would a few of these do for your vote score?

For New Nominees.

New candidates are entering every day. There is plenty room and prizes for more people who will work. A new candidate can, with the bonus votes offered to new candidates, enter this campaign today and with a few long term subscriptions take the lead in either district. Look at the scores printed today, then look how fast new and long-term subscriptions count up as shown below. The campaign is just starting now. The time to enter is today. If you are already entered now is the time to start after the prize you want to win. If you want $1,000, $700, $400, or any of the other 23 cash prizes to be given away in a few short weeks you will have to act quickly. The best chance of winning any of these great amounts ends Saturday night, May 4th.

Campaign Notes.

100,000 extra votes are given on each club of $20.00 turned in. The $20.00 does not need to be turned in at one time. Candidates who have turned in $4.00, $8.00 or $12.00 should complete their club at once to increase their vote count 100,000 votes.

Scout Banquet May 6 a Community Affair

The Scout Banquet which will be held in Schuler Hall, Monday evening May 6, appeals to all classes of citizens inasmuch as it has for its object the benefit of the boys and the promotion of a closer fellowship among the parents of the community. It comes as a fitting climax to Youth Week, April 22-28, observed nation wide.

The bringing together of several hundred fathers and sons, men and boys of Dixon cannot help but be of great benefit to the whole city. And in addition the leaders hope to make a creditable sum to assist in sending local boys to the great Boy Scout Jamboree in Washington, D. C., in August. This can be done as the mothers are donating their services to help make the banquet a success and much of the food will be donated.

All community-minded citizens are grateful to the Scout leaders for offering this medium for enlisting the whole community in so worthy an enterprise.

DEADLY GAS IN SWAMP
Near Zionville, N. C., there is a swamp that gives off an obnoxious gas. Crawfish, used in a test, perished immediately when thrown into the muck.

AMBOY NEWS

By Frances Lepperd
Amboy — Attorney Charles A. Zweng of Bloomington will talk on the subject, "The Townsend Revolving Pension Plan" at the local opera house Saturday evening at 7:30. Attorney Zweng, who has been both city and state's attorney at Bloomington, is an able speaker and is well versed on the Townsend plan. A program of music will precede the talk. This is the first of a series of lectures which are being sponsored by a committee of local citizens who are interested in the plan. The public is invited to hear this highly important issue discussed.

Left Out of Will, Two Brothers Sue for Half Century Work in Field

Edwardsville, Ill., April 25—(AP)—Claims for $7642, which two brothers assert is due them for 50 years harvest work without pay for their foster-father, the late William McGantion of Godfrey were on file here today.

The brothers, Charles William and Alton and Albert William, Lincoln, filed their claims yesterday against McGantion's estate. Charles said he worked in the fields for McGantion from 1882 to 1930, for which he claimed $3905, and Albert from 1883 to 1933, for which he asked $3737. They were not mentioned in the will.

FIXED VALUE OF GOODS
Among at least three quarters of the people of the world, goods bought and sold seldom have a fixed value. The price paid is determined only after negotiations between buyer and seller. When the parties wish to keep the price a secret between themselves, the negotiations are carried on in a finger code under cover. Prices for rugs in Persia and rubies in Burma are settled by the two men squeezing each other's hands beneath a table or a piece of cloth—Collier's Weekly.

LIFE OF BUTTERFLIES
Not all butterflies are short-lived; some live almost a year in the adult stage, though they hibernate part of this time.

DEATHS FROM ASPHYXIA
According to the American Society for the Prevention of Asphyxial Death, nearly 50,000 deaths occur annually in the United States from asphyxia. Various forms of asphyxia include drowning, electric shock, carbon monoxide poisoning, gas inhalation, overdoses of anesthesia, asphyxia of still born children and similar cases.

THE REINDEER FAMILY
Both male and female reindeer have long equally branched antlers. Their hoofs are admirably adapted to travel over snow fields. In the wild, reindeer migrate from one tundra feeding ground to another.

where they subsist on grasses and northern cladonia, a lichen usually called reindeer moss.

BABSON FINDS NEW YORKERS PESSIMISTIC

More Doubtful About Future There Than in Other Places

New York City, April 26.—On my way north during the past week I made a point to check Easter trade reports carefully. As every reader realizes, retail trade is the real backbone of business. In fact, it is one of the five basic indicators which I study most carefully. Not only are such figures an excellent barometer of general business, but they are very helpful in judging public sentiment.

Near February Peak. Hence, the good volume of buying throughout most of the nation at this Easter season was decidedly optimistic. Even though relief funds had a big part in this trade, I have found that nearly every line of industry, barring home building, is doing very well and is holding close to its February peak. But, as I reported during my recent trans-continental trip, conditions vary greatly in different sections at present. This fact was again impressed upon me on my journey north from Florida. People here in New York are feeling a little more optimistic than they were a month ago, but they are more pessimistic than in any other place I have been since January.

New York City's trade figures reflected her dejected spirits, but considering the generally inclement weather, sales in most other sections were very satisfactory. Heavy buying was reported throughout the south, in most parts of the west, and in other areas where relief money has been spent most generously. The midwest, particularly the automobile centers, also turned in excellent reports. Trade in New England and on the Pacific coast was much better than recently, although below the average for the country. Out in parts of the central and southwest, dust storms hindered buying. Delayed Easter purchases should, however, give May a big boost. Preliminary reports indicate that Easter sales probably averaged around ten per cent above 1934.

Possible Inflation Hedge. Retail trade during the last few months has been one of the most favorable of all indicators. Mail-order concerns have done a huge business—about twenty per cent over 1934. This is due largely to the increase in farm income. Drug chains are next in line. Department stores and variety chains, especially in the west and south have done fairly well, although their volume dropped below the 1934 level in March. Dollar sales of food chains, due to high prices, are up about ten per cent but these stores are suffering from increased costs under the codes and from resistance to high food prices. Furthermore, they are now being plagued by heavy chain taxes on individual stores. Investors should watch this tax factor carefully!

From the merchants' standpoint, price trends rather than volume, are the most important factor in the retail field. A decline in prices, bringing inventory losses, were very easily offset by a good trade gain. Vice versa—a sharp rise in prices may nullify a loss of sales. This was the case in 1933 when volume dropped but prices jumped and most stores were in black ink. Last year, however, the unit volume of sales gradually increased and at the same time prices worked lower. The trend has continued so that today stores, even though selling more goods, are making less money than a year ago. This dependence on prices for profits is the reason why many investors are buying merchandizing shares as an inflation hedge.

Prices Below Year Ago. Retail prices are also extremely important from the point of view of the family budget. Since the 29 per cent rise from April, 1933, to April, 1934, retail prices of most lines have been gradually working lower. Today prices of department store apparel, for instance, are four per cent below a year ago. Meanwhile, wholesale food has been rising sharply, now being thirty per cent above last year and eighty-five per cent above the depression low, although retail provisions and grocery prices have not fully matched the advance. While there seems to be no haste for buying during the immediate future, readers should remember that the long term trend of retail prices is headed upward.

Now I come to a vital phase of retailing—collections. The most recent reports on collections from over a hundred cities are very optimistic. Thirty reported that payments were good; seventy-one, satisfactory; and only fourteen, slow. Roughly, those cities reporting the best collections are the same as those which had the most brisk Easter trade—the Southern and Western centers. Slowing up of payments was principally confined to the textile cities of the Northeast and the drought and flood areas of the Centralwest. Generally speaking, those sections receiving the biggest chunks of relief money are reporting the best sales, but their collections are not keeping pace. Credit managers should take note of this fact.

Dog-Fight Dampers on Recovery. The big improvement in collections during the past week is very important. It is a very healthy barometer of better business. It indicates that more and more people are getting back on their feet—they are paying up their old debts and laying a basis for a wholesome rise in retail sales as times goes on. This improvement in collections is just another sign of the strengthening of fundamentals. I have said consistently for the past year that fundamentals are getting vastly better each day. If the government would only halt its spending and reform programs, readers would be amazed by the speed with which business would snap upward.

In the final analysis, the trend of retail trade depends primarily on the course of general business. At the present time the physical volume of business, according to the Babsonchart, has dropped two per cent below last April and twenty-one per cent below normal. Even so, basic conditions are better today than at any time in the last five years. Business men, however, continue to lack confidence. Only the dog-fight between the politicians at Washington is holding back prosperity now. If we could clean up the political situation we could have a tremendous boom in industry and trade and our unemployment problem would be solved over-night!

New York, April 26.—(AP)—Dun & Bradstreet in a weekly trade review issued today said, "sentiment in business continues to trail actual trade improvement."

This condition prevails, the review stated, "in spite of the proof displayed by distributive totals that the spurt in pre-Easter buying was more than a flash, the encouraging recovery of wholesale markets, and the maintenance of industrial operations in most divisions at previous levels."

The review continued: "Where a slower pace of improvement has been indicated, the majority of the reports trace it to unreasonable weather or to delays in legislation, which have fostered hesitation."

"Final earnings statements for the first quarter reveal a substantial rise over the figure for the comparative three months of 1934, with the net of many companies the best in five years, and cash reserves, as a whole, the largest in the last three years."

Retail sales for the Easter shopping period were estimated 8 to 12 per cent above the 1934 level.

"Attracted by the special post-Easter promotional events," the review stated, "consumer buying broadened sufficiently during the week to lift the total of retail sales for the country from 8 to as much as 20 per cent higher than a year ago."

In the wholesale markets, the review stated, there was a turn to greater activity.

Manufacturing activity was reported to be continuing at a high rate.

THE LIMERICK
A limerick is a nonsense rhyme of five anapestic lines, of which one, two and five have three feet and rhyme, and lines three and four have two feet and rhyme. The name is said to derive from a song with the same verse construction in Ireland, the refrain of which contains the place name Limerick.

REGISTER TONNAGE
The Bureau of Navigation and Steamboat Inspection defines register tonnage as net or register tonnage which remains after deducting from the gross tonnage the spaces occupied by the propelling machinery (including allowance for fuel), crew quarters, master's cabin and navigation spaces.

HOPKINS' PLACE IN NEW SPENDING SET-UP QUESTION

Many Believe He Will be Very Close to Driver in Great Projects

BULLETIN
Washington, Apr. 26.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today completed his works-relief organization with appointment of Harry L. Hopkins, as administrator of the works progress division.

He charged the progress division with the task of making certain that persons employed on the projects come from the relief rolls.

Washington, April 26.—(AP)—Formation of the world's greatest peace-time spending machine neared completion today with the capital absorbed in speculation as to how near the driver's seat Harry L. Hopkins will be.

Hopkins, who became the New Deal's ace spender by passing out $3,000,000,000 in relief and CWA grants the last two years, was called to confer with the President tonight on the vast new work relief setup.

He cancelled a scheduled speaking trip to Chicago, and the White House intimated he was slated for an "important" role in the $4,000,000,000 work relief drive. But just what part the liberal-minded relief administrator will play in the job-making drama remained unknown. Thus he was something of a "mystery man" in the unfolding plans.

Watch Congress Reaction
Congress was watched closely for its reaction to the appointment of Secretary of Ickes last night as chairman of a works allotment board of 22 to recommend projects for the President's approval.

Some Congressmen have accused Ickes of being discourteous and arrogant toward them and have argued that he has been too slow in spending the $3,300,000,000 appropriated for public works two years ago. A congressional controversy over his request for a $10,000-a-year assistant was in progress even as the President announced his appointment.

Summoned with Hopkins to the White House tonight were Ickes, Rexford Tugwell, chief of the rural resettlement division of work relief; Frank C. Walker, head of the work relief applications and information division in the National Emergency Council; Joseph Kennedy, chairman of the securities ties commission; former Representative Charles West of Ohio, the President's liaison officer with Congress, and Secretary Morgenthau of the Treasury.

See Extensive Program
Why Kennedy, West and Morgenthau were included was not explained.

Remarks by Secretary Ickes, and the terms of a bill introduced by Senator Lewis (D. Ill.) provided an indication, meanwhile, of expectations that extensive public works may be planned as a long-time policy.

Ickes said at his press conference yesterday that some projects requiring several years to build might receive enough work relief money to carry them forward for one year, with officials trusting "to the future for the rest of it."

The Interior Secretary said he was strongly for Senator Lewis' bill which would change the name of the Interior Department to the "Department of Conservation and Public Works."

Palmyra Boy Scouts Met at Shore Home

A meeting of the Palmyra Boys 4-H club was held at the home of Delbert Shore, Wednesday evening. The meeting was called to order by the president and roll call was taken, each member responding with a project they were selecting for the year.

The club decided to hold an ice cream social sometime this summer. After the business meeting, the evening was turned over to the program chairman in which games were played and each thought of a game or joke.

Refreshments were then served, after which the members departed for their homes. The next meeting will be held at the home of Robert Williams.

The DARK BLOND

by CARLETON KENDRAKE © 1935 NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
MILICENT GRAVES, secretary to GEORGE DRINGOLD, finds her employer in his office dead. JARVIS HAP, a stranger, offers to help her. He sends her to a beauty shop where she is transformed into a brunet, then takes her home, introducing her as his secretary. She meets Hap's son, NORMAN; his stepson, ROBERT CAISE; Mrs. HAP; D. C. K. GENTRY, Hap's partner; and VERA DUCHENE, Mrs. Hap's maid.

In Hap's home Millicent sees the mysterious woman in black ermine whom she believes has some connection with Dringold's death. The chauffeur is found dead. Later Hap is kidnapped. Millicent and Norman learn the car driven by the woman in ermine belongs to PHYLIS FAUCONER. They go to her apartment and while they are there someone tries to enter. Norman believes it was who it is. Millicent discovers the suitcase containing Hap's business accounts, takes it and goes to the hotel where she stopped before.

NORMAN said, "Millicent, I love you. That's why it meant so much to me when I found you were safe after knowing you had been in such danger. I didn't want to tell you now because I was afraid you'd think I was just like Bob Caise. I know the way he must have tried to force himself upon you. But it's different with me. Won't you understand? Can't you understand?"

She tried to find words, but words would not come. He misinterpreted her silence. "Oh, please, dearest one," he said, "please don't misunderstand me! I can't bear the thought of living without you. Please don't be prejudiced against me because I was swept off my feet. Give me a chance to show you that I really do love you. After we have all of these troubles behind us—after we are living as we want to, without fear of what may be just around the corner. Then, sometime when you have learned to know me better, I'll ask you to marry me. Until then, please hold your mind open. Please don't become prejudiced."

And then she found her voice and heard herself saying, "Silly, can't you see I love you, too?" His arms closed about her. Their lips clung together for a rapturous moment.

This time it was Norman who terminated the caress. Slowly he released her, looking at her with eyes in which there was no longer hunger, but only a deep tenderness. "Dearest," he said, "we owe it to you to get this thing straightened out by Heaven, we're going to find the person who killed Dringold and we're going to find Harry Felding's murderer. Just let me sit over here where I can watch you while you work on those books. Then we'll find Gentry and when we find him I'll confront him with the facts and figures."

SHE brushed her lips lightly against his cheek, caught his hand, held it in both of hers for a moment. Then, with a low, throaty laugh, she pushed him over toward the big overstuffed chair and said, "Sit there, Norman. I'm so happy I'm afraid I can't add a column of figures. But I'll try, because it has to be done. We're fighting against minutes. Sergeant Mahoney is looking for me and it won't be long until he finds me. When he does we have to have this thing solved."

Without a word Norman sat down, took a cigarette from his case, and lit it.

"Go ahead," he said, "I'll wait. I can wait, now that I know how you feel. Only work as fast as you can, so that I can get out and do my share toward cleaning this thing up."

She made no attempt at an orderly audit of the books. Instead she looked for certain tell-tale evidences of discrepancies—things which she had learned during the time she had acted as assistant to a public accountant.

Less than two hours had passed when she looked up at Norman Hap who had kept perfectly quiet, watching her.

"There's a fund of more than $200,000 that has simply disappeared," she told him. "It's been juggled around through one or two accounts and then completely dropped. I can tell you this about Richard Gentry—he's an indifferent bookkeeper, but he's an embezzler. His books would never stand up to an audit. They wouldn't even balance. His accounts show discrepancies right on their faces."

"Okay," he said, "let's go. How about that shorthand notebook—the one in which you took Dringold's confession?"

She handed it to him. He opened the book and looked at the series of pothooks.

"It might as well be in Egyptian," he told her, "as far as I'm concerned."

Suddenly his eyes narrowed and he said, "Look here, Millicent. Suppose we could discover what that crime was Dringold was going to confess. Don't you think you could have it appear his confession had gone farther than it really did? No one could check up on you."

"Someone who used my system of shorthand could," she told him. "We'll take a chance on that. Let's see if we can't find out something about what he was going to confess because it's linked with this whole business in some way. Come on. Let's go see this chap who runs the liquor store and see if he can't give us an additional clue. With that in our hands we will be sitting pretty."

"How about this suitcase?" she asked.

"That," he said, "can be left with the clerk at the desk. Tell him it contains valuables and he'll put it in a safe place. Come on, let's go."

He unlocked the door, held it open for her, and together they descended to the lobby. Hap handed the suitcase across the counter to the clerk and said, "That has some valuable documents in it. Give me a receipt and keep it in a safe place. The suitcase is the property of Miss Millicent Jones who is registered with you."

The clerk eyed him with cynical appraisal, but what he saw in Norman Hap's eyes made him lower his own and nod with unconscious civility.

"Very well, sir," he said, making out a receipt.

Norman folded the receipt, handed it to Millicent and said, "You'd better keep this with that note Bob Caise wrote and then you'll have all the evidence together."

They caught a taxicab, went to minutes. Sergeant Mahoney is looking for me and it won't be long until he finds me. When he does we have to have this thing solved."

Without a word Norman sat down, took a cigarette from his case, and lit it.

"Go ahead," he said, "I'll wait. I can wait, now that I know how you feel. Only work as fast as you can, so that I can get out and do my share toward cleaning this thing up."

THREE DIXON NINES READY FOR WEEKEND

State Hospital and the Dodgers Play Third Games

Three Dixon baseball teams will head into the 1935 season in earnest this week end.

The Dixon State Hospital nine plans to engage a hastily gathered club from the high school, the Dixon Independents will entertain the Rockford Polish Falcons at the Airport diamond, and the Dixon Dodgers will invade Nelson for a game with the Nelson Cardinals.

The State Hospital and the Dodgers have already played two games this spring. The Hospital Employees divided a pair of games with patients, winning the first second 10 to 8, and losing the first 8 to 7. Windmiller and Kesseling shared mound duty with "Slim" Mansfield behind the plate. The Dixon Independents under the sponsorship of Ora Stevens have been practicing each Sunday for two or three weeks but have been hampered by bad weather. The team has among its candidates for positions, Kays, Watts, "Paddy" McDonald, Bovey, Rink, and others.

The Falcons will be the first opponents of the local nine this season, and are considered one of the strong teams of northern Illinois. The Dixon Dodgers opened their season a bit prematurely, but managed to down a team of East Enders in their first game. They lost Easter Sunday to Lee Center 8 to 4, however, when they invaded that village. Among those on the Dodgers club are the Hasselberg brothers, Underwood, Hilliker, Henry, Scriven, Cruthoff. The Nelson Cardinals, their opposition, Sunday will not be without a few trump cards in their hands. Pitching for them is Clark, a former Pacific coast leaguer of the Los Angeles Angels.

DO YOU REMEMBER?

One Year Ago Today — Euid Wilson, British women's golf champion, was barred from defending her title on the grounds that she had violated her amateur standing by assisting an amateur in conducting a newspaper stunt.

Five Years Ago Today — Dan Beattie, Colorado Agricultural College star, set a new record in the University of Colorado relays when he tossed the eight pound shot 68 feet.

Ten Years Ago Today — The Boston A. C., of the American Soccer League, defeated the Ben Millers of St. Louis, 3-2, to win the U. S. soccer title.

TRUE PORCELAIN

The porcelain made at Meissen, commonly called Dresden, out of courtesy to the city where set the electors of Saxony, was true porcelain and should not be confused with the early translucent ware made in Egypt and Persia and in Italy, England and France, which owed its texture to the use of glass. Such ware was, at best, a substitute for the real thing.

NOT HIS LAST CHANCE

The original plan of Columbus was to ask Spain, England and France for backing for his venture across the Atlantic, his brother being commissioned to approach the English King. A message from England actually came inviting Columbus to talk the matter over just after he had agreed with Spain for the trip.

TALMADGE SEES TAMMANY METHODS IN RELIEF

Georgia's Governor is Consistent Foe of Administration

Atlanta, April 26 — (AP) — Gov. Eugene Talmadge, whose criticism of the Roosevelt administration has been condemned by the newspaper which supported him in his rise to the gubernatorial chair, charges the administration with using "Tammany methods" in handling relief funds.

Disregarding an editorial in the Atlanta Constitution which said, "the Governor is serving no good purpose in his continued attacks on the administration," Talmadge in an interview criticized the relief office for removing distribution of $1-300,000 in school aid from jurisdiction of the state school department and giving it to the Georgia relief administration. He also assailed the administration for not paying the soldier's bonus.

"Tammany Methods"
Referring to a change in the method of handling the school money, Talmadge said last night, "This is in keeping with the policy of the present administration. They have adopted typical Tammany methods in the handling of all relief funds."
"They have tied political strings on everything. They seek to hold a big political stick over all state officials administering the funds. When the officers will not stand for this political stick they then set up a force of their own in the states which is contrary to the doctrine of state's rights, x x x."

The Constitution, or which Clark Howell, Sr., is editor and president, expressed the belief Roosevelt is certain of re-nomination "without serious opposition and that he will be overwhelmingly re-elected."
The editorial said Talmadge's attacks on the administration "have served only to discredit Georgia and to fan the flames of Democratic opposition."

HARD AND SOFT METALS

When metals are heated they soften. When they are cooled they harden. When lead is cooled to liquid air temperatures it becomes hard enough to vibrate when struck and thus give off sound.

Setting Pace for Babe Ruth

A new rival for Babe Ruth's home run honors has made his appearance in the person of Dolf Camilli, young first baseman of the National League Phillies. Above he's pictured scoring his fifth home run in five games, to lead in the major league slugging specialty. Hubbell of the Giants was the victim of the fifth blow.

Dixon Cinder Team Wins Smashing Victory Over Rock Falls By 89 to 35

Five Old Records Are Shattered by the Tracksters

Smashing records, some of which were of five year's standing, and piling up an overwhelming preponderance of tallies, Dixon high school's track and field team in its interscholastic debut of the 1935 season, buried Rock Falls 89 to 35 on the local high school field, Thursday afternoon.

Under the assault of Coach A. C. Bowers 1935 edition of track talent, former records in the 440 yard dash, 120 yard high hurdles, high jump, broad jump and javelin were sent glimmering into oblivion. Reback demolished the 440 yard dash mark by tallying a time of 56.3 seconds as compared with Stahl's 1934 record of 57. Mickey McMillion shaved a full second off the 124 record established by Carl Plowman in the 120 yard high hurdles in 1930. Klein and Miller shared high jump honors. Each leaped the bars at 5 ft. 3 3/4 inches to better by a 1/4 of an inch the record of Warfel, Rock Falls athlete in 1930.

Underwood, leading an attack on the broad jump for Dixon athletes, extended Maningam's 1934 record of 20 ft. 2 in. by eight inches, and in the javelin throw posted 161 ft. 9 in. as compared with Ogen's 1932 record of 144 ft. 3 in.

Gets Fast Start

The Purple and White team got away to a fast start by scoring a

WONDERS OF THE ANCIENT WORLD

The seven wonders of the ancient world were: Pyramids of Egypt, Pharos of Alexandria, Hanging Gardens of Babylon, Temple of Diana at Ephesus, Statue of Zeus by Phidias, Tomb of Mausolus at Halicarnassus, and Colossus of Rhodes (statue of Apollo). Wonders of the Middle Ages were: Coliseum at Rome, Catacombs at Alexandria, Great Wall of China, Stonehenge in England, Leaning Tower of Pisa, Porcelain Tower of Nankin, and the Mosque of St. Sophia at Constantinople. The telephone, radio, airplane, radium, antitoxins, spectrum analysis and the X-ray are generally considered the most wonderful things of today—Pathfinder Magazine.

PIRATES AS MONEY MAKERS

Old forts, trees that served as gibbets and other spots identified with the pirate history of Spanish Main are such a magnet to visitors that it is estimated the pirates have brought more money to the West Indies than ever they took from it.

THE FIRST SMOKERS

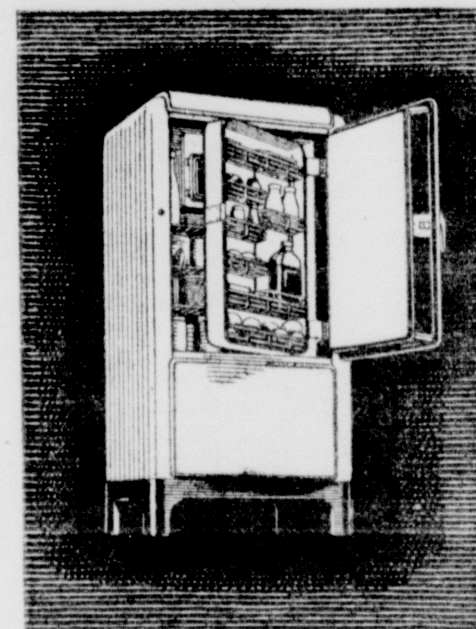

Smoking is a custom of ancient origin. The earliest explorers of America found the natives using tobacco leaves for smoking and chewing, and tobacco pipes have been found in prehistoric mounds; often it was a sacred tribal custom. Smoking was carried to England by Sir Walter Raleigh and spread throughout the countries.

In the East the water pipe or narghile has been in existence for many centuries.

PROXIMITY OF NAVAL BASES

The Japanese naval base closest to the Philippines is the one in Formosa. The American naval base closest to Japan is at Cavite, Philippine islands, and the closest British base is at Hongkong.
